Michael's Thoughts

Beloved Catherine and I are simply elated to have the opportunity to serve you. As the weeks go on I will share information about our family and other things. We look forward to our learning and growing together! Catherine and I already know something very important about you. You are gifted!

I'm just saying!

Remember: On any given day you will either hit a home run, get on base, or strike out. The only requirement is that you practice each and every day, come up to the plate, and swing!

—Michael Carson

Cleaning the Refrigerator

Tri Kappa will be using the kitchen all day on Thursday, Nov. 11th. to make cheeseballs. The group will need as much refrigerator space as possible. Please help them out by checking the refrigerator for items that can be thrown out, are expired, or can be consolidated to create extra space for Tri Kappa's cheeseball making day.
 Thank you so much!

Hour of Prayer

Join WYM in prayer on Monday evening November 15th. From 7-8 pm for an hour of prayer.

EquiVenture focuses on improving each of our riders' potential through their equine experience. We help them meet the physical, mental, behavioral, and social challenges of their special needs. The riders get stronger, sit up taller, they speak more clearly, their self-confidence increases...the improvements are wide and varied. We have had so many parents tell us that their son/daughter would not do their stretches at home, but that is the first thing they do when they are mounted. Or that their balance, or their upper body strength is so much better! But the common denominator for all our riders is that they have so much fun! The children in our program get to do something that most of their friends have only dreamed of---they ride a horse! The chicken noodle sale on 11/13/21 will benefit EquiVenture.

Worship services are live via our Facebook Page

Belize Friends Church

Some of the miracles we see here at church happen in multiple sacred spaces. A teen who never wanted to step his foot in church, and struggled to sit through a 30-minute devotion at school, one day told Nikki that he wanted to come to church, just to sit in. After several months of coming, he is still here with us.

Our church grows in part because young people who are there love it. They invite their friends, who in turn invite their friends. When we speak with them, we realize that they are at different places in their lives. Some of them are not even sure whether they want to have a relationship with God but they love coming and participating in worship and fellowship. And we don't drag them to that place of perfection, but we create spaces for them. Over time, we see transformation in their lives. Guys who were restless at the beginning can now complete a one-hour service with calm, including a ten-minute time of silent waiting worship. Some who just sat and watched now participate in church committees, leading worship, praying for others, reading scripture etc.

Creating multiple sacred spaces means being open to the work of the Spirit who is at work in many ways that we do not see, until the fruits emerge.

—Oscar Mmbali, Belize Friends Pastoral Minister
